Petroleum industry invasion watched

Pollution warning device to guard Hancock air

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Mississippi Department of Natural Resources will install an air pollution monitoring system near a County Port and Harbor Commission shack at Port Bienville Industrial Park. MDNR Representative George Parker requested the Port Bienville location for the monitoring system at a Thursday evening regular meeting of the Port and Harbor Commission. "We will set up an ozone monitoring system to monitor New Orleans and Louisiana petroleum plant air pollution which is travelling as far north as New York," Parker explained. "We will accumulate ambient air particles on a teflon collector," Parker added. Parker said an eight by 10 foot portable shed will be placed on the Port Bienville site along with some instrumentation. "This is one of several monitoring stations which will be placed in strategic locations throughout the U.S.," Parker reported. Commission Director W. Wilson Webre said, "We will loan the site to MDNR for a period of two years, but if at any time we need that location the department has agreed to move the station."

county industrial operations promissory note with Hancock Bank for an additional one-year period. The six percent, $150,000 note, on property now rented to Halter Marine, Inc. at Port Bienville dated June 7, 1977 is due April 13, 1980. Approved a resolution authorizing execution of an addendum to the lease agreement, with Halter Marine, Inc., extending terms and conditions for an additional six-month period ending Nov. 20, 1980. Webre said Halter understands the monthly payments are prorated based on the interest rate of Hancock Bank's promissory note extension. Approved a resolution authorizing execution of an addendum to the option agreement with Halter Marine, Inc. also extending terms and conditions for an additional six month period. Webre explained the option states Halter has the right to purchase the building they're occupying at Port Bienville for the remaining outstanding balance. Approved a resolution authorizing Montgomery Maintenance and Heavy Equipment Co. of Montgomery, Ala. to repair the diesel locomotive at Port Bienville for $3,629 as specified in a Feb. 29 proposal. The company will install two new air compressors, replace fuel filters, clean the generators, remount oil filters and replace brushes in the traction motors. Webre said one of the two diesel motors were inoperative and repairs could be made over a weekend to avoid down time. Approved a resolution ratifying partial payment to Coastal Machinery Co., Inc. of Gulfport totalling $30,000 and authorized a $4,428 final payment on April 1. Approved a resolution rescinding a portion of a Feb. 21 resolution related to a $10,000 interfund transfer from the industrial park revenue fund to the port and harbor construction fund. Approved a resolution opposing Senate Bill No. 2264 forming a Mississippi Commission on Transportation. Webre said the bill would create an agency which 'shall approve any action by any port commission.' Commissioner Victor Franckiewicz abstained requesting more information on the bill, but voiced opposition to the formation of any more state agencies.

State officials silent

Parker explained, "It is also understood we will provide our own power, the Port and Harbor Commission will not be held responsible for any of the equipment at the site and we will have someone recording data at the site only 3-4 hours, one day each week. "A good alternate site, should you need this area, would be near the water tower," Parker added. In other business, during the 7:30 p.m. meeting at the Waveland port and harbor offices, the commissioners: Approved a resolution authorizing execution of documents to extend a

Republican caucuses set

Shaw to head Reagan effort

By EDGAR PEREZ
U.S. Representative Trent Lott (Rep.-MS) reported Hildon Shaw of Crane Creek will serve as Ronald Reagan's campaign chairman in Hancock County. In addition, Lott reported Hancock County supporters of Reagan's bid for the Republican presidential nomination will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the conference room of Gulf National Bank in Bay St. Louis. Lott serves as state chairman for the Reagan campaign. "I encourage all interested persons to take part in this important meeting and demonstrate their support for Ronald Reagan," Lott stated. The state's Fifth District congressman explained Tuesday's meeting is the first step in a process to select four delegates from the district committed to Reagan to appear on the ballot of a June 3 Republican Presidential Preference Primary election. At the Tuesday meeting, Lott added, Hancock County Reagan supporters will select delegates to an 11 a.m. Fifth District Reagan rally Saturday at the Hattiesburg Holiday Inn. The Hancock County Republican Precinct Caucuses are set for 10 a.m. Saturday, April 26 at the county's various voting places, to be followed that day at 3 p.m. by a Hancock County Caucus at the Courthouse. Shaw said the Fifth District Party Caucus will be held in conjunction with the State Convention in Jackson May 10. State party rules stipulate 17 delegates and a like number of alternates from the State of Mississippi to the August Republican National city off the Chandeleur Islands said Friday his application for a permit to conduct further archeological surveys of that city has been rejected. George Gele, who recently told the National Space Technology Laboratories Diving Club of his find and asked assistance in collecting evidence that the underwater city exists, said Friday his application for a permit was rejected last week. Gele had applied for the application from the Secretary of the Louisiana Department of Culture, Recreation, and Tourism, after his application is screened by the Louisiana Archeological and Antiquities Commission, which acts as a recommending body for the secretary. The reason for disapproving the permit, according to Gele, was that the commission and secretary did not accept the credentials of Dr. David Zinc, author of 'Stones of Atlantis' and 'Megalithic Stones,' who earlier said Gele had made a "major archeological find." "The state claimed Dr. Zinc is not a professional archeologist. I reminded the secretary about the part of the law which stipulates that a person with field experience qualifies as an expert, but the state would not accept that," Gele said Friday. "I have since contacted a professional archeologist to assist me," he added. Gele told the NSTL divers that his find could date back 15,000 years to the Ice Age, depending upon which layer of sand the foundation of the city rests. Bay man booked on theft charges

Search for underwater city snagged by permit rejection

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Approximately $80 was stolen from the Bay St. Louis Greyhound Bus Station on Ulman Avenue about 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

Thursday night Bay police booked Gil Ward, 28, of 538 State St., Bay St. Louis for petty larceny and simple assault in the bus station robbery.

"We arrested Ward at his home 6:45 p.m. Thursday for violating a habeas corpus Wednesday night. We remembered him wearing a green and red jacket so we asked Mrs. Little to see if this was the man who robbed the station," Assistant Chief of Police Frank Hess said Friday.

"Ward was identified by the woman as the man who robbed the bus station. He was charged with petty larceny and simple assault," Hess explained.

"We have not yet recovered the money stolen from the bus station," Hess added.

Hess said Ward was previously booked March 11 for driving under the influence, reckless driving, no license, profanity and disrespect of a law officer.

"My wife (Valery Little) stepped out of the office for a moment to check some baggage coming in by bus when a tall, black, teenage male, wearing a green fatigue jacket ran from the front door south toward Carroll Avenue," William L. Little Sr., bus station manager, said just after the robbery. Little said his wife tried to grab the thief as he fled from the building and believes the robber was hiding in the station bathroom just prior to the incident.

Mrs. Little returned to the office to find approximately $80 in $10 and $20 denominations missing from the bus station cash box.

The Bay St. Louis Police Department are investigating the theft.

The station manager said this is the fifth robbery at the Bay station, but all the thieves have been apprehended and prosecuted.

Bay St. Louis Police Department officers involved in the investigation are Patrolman Charles Campbell, Investigator Jim Mallini and Hess.

(Editor's note: The following article is one in a series on traffic safety matters issued by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation and authored by Joan Claybrook of NHTSA).

Historically, emotional appeal and fancy options have been the selling points when America shops for a new car. Advertising campaigns lure prospects to the showrooms with fancy visuals and with eloquent talk of leather seats, deep pile carpeting and power sun roofs.

Overwhelmed by the irresistible smell of a new car, a free AM-FM radio, a trim package thrown in by the dealer ("If you buy now!") and a modest trade-in on the old clunker, most people were easily convinced that they were getting the best deal in town.

But public attitudes and buying habits are beginning to change. New car buyers are not just kicking tires, they are watching their pennies closer and asking more questions. Recent surveys show that there is a growing demand for consumer information in the marketplace.

Whether they are purchasing a waffle iron or a car, shoppers today are more conscious about the safety and performance of the products they buy, and their rights to remedies or warranty should problems arise.

A number of automotive and consumer magazines evaluate the frequency-of-repair records and handling and comfort features of automobiles sold in this country.

Some of them such as Consumer Reports are excellent references to check before shopping local dealers for the best price.

But until recently, there has been no source of information to tell new car buyers how much protection a particular make or model will provide in an accident; most people simply take for granted the assumption that all big cars are safe and all small ones are dangerous.

The first series of 20 test cars included domestic and foreign models. Some of the results were surprising.

The Chevrolet Citation and Chevette, the Plymouth Horizon and the Ford Mustang, — all small cars — passed the frontal test while the full-size Oldsmobile 98, Chrysler LeBaron, and Mercury Marquis did not.

None of the imported cars, tested, including the Volkswagen Rabbit, Toyota Celica and Datsun 210, passed the frontal test.

The Rabbit also failed the car impact test.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's New Car Assessment Program will continue in the 1980s.

It is an important step toward a federal automotive crashworthiness rating system, similar to the current fuel economy ratings which must be displayed on the window sticker of every new car.

Such a system would not only benefit the new car buyer, but could also encourage more competition among the automobile manufacturers to produce cars which are safer, more resistant to damage and less costly to service and repair.

As a goal for the automakers to match, NHTSA has developed a remarkable Research Safety Vehicle which uses existing technology to protect occupants in 50 mph crashes while combining good looks, excellent fuel economy and acceptable emissions levels in a small car.

Copies of the crash test results and a brochure on the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration's safety car are available by writing to Crash Test, National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, General Services Division, 400 7th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20590.

Water and fire protection should be priority matter

In the 1960's, Bay St. Louis like so many other communities throughout the U.S. Annexed more territory.

The residents of these areas were promised by the then city fathers within ten years they would have water, fire protection, sewerage, garbage collection and police protection.

The ten years elapsed many years ago and many of the promised services are still missing to many of the residents of the annexed area, primarily sewer, water and fire protection.

Several weeks ago the Bay Council requested City Clerk Kelly McQueen and Ronnie Murray, Gulf Regional Planning Commission representative to check with the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) to see if some grant and loan monies were available for the installation of a water line along US-90.

Murray reported back to the Council at their last regular meeting that FmHA advised them to seek a whole project instead of doing it in a piece-meal way.

We feel that now would be a good opportunity for the city, if they have the fees for an engineer, to try to secure funds for sewer, water and fire protection for every residence not having the services at this time.

The cost will be high to provide these services, but, we must remember prior administrations promised the annexed folks they all would have these services.

Now if it would cost too much to do both at one time, we would suggest the water and fire protection.

The monies if approved by FmHA, as we understand it, would be a grant on part and loan for the rest.

One thing we must take into consideration is the fact that it costs more each day to do any type of construction and it will not be long before these improvements are possibly out of reach.

We have run into many instances of people having loans disapproved for a lack of sewerage so every effort should be made to get a whole package. It is almost like what is more important, the horse or the cart!

COUNTY BEAUTIFICATION-Hancock County Jailer R.D. Ladner, left, and jail inmates Garrett Allen Ford and E.J. Madere clean up leaves and rubbish in the 100 block of Washington Street in Bay St. Louis. The cleanup Tuesday represented fulfillment of a campaign promise by Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson to conduct beautification of the county. Peterson and Investigator Alvin Ladner assisted in the cleanup from a squad car.

HELPING CLEANUP - Roger Dale Ladner, left, District Three supervisor; Hancock Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, center, and R. D. Ladner, county jailer, survey pile of trash at the intersection of Julia and Engman Avenues Wednesday morning. Supervisor Ladner furnished a truck and driver and Sheriff Peterson several trustees under the watchful eye of Ladner the jailer in removing the unsightly debris. Numerous complaints have been heard about the unlawful dumping about which authorities are planning a crackdown, and we back them 100 percent.

TOO SOGGY TO SLEEP ON - Hancock County trustees load a mattress soaking wet on District Three truck for carrying to the official dump at Catahoula. People seem to think the eastern end of Bay St. Louis in the Cedar Point area is a dump, and officials are going to inform violators with summons which carry a $100 fine. New 'No Dumping' signs have been posted and efforts are being made by County and City officials to clean up Hancock County. The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce is also urging residents to please help keep our Community clean.

YOUR OPINION COUNTS

Washington Report

By REP. TRENT LOTT
5th District, Mississippi

Our system of government rests upon the foundation of public opinion, and open discussion of the issues and problems of the day is essential. That's why I make it a point to stay in close touch with the people of Mississippi's Fifth District.

Members of Congress use various means to make sure the channels of communication remain open. In addition to regular correspondence, media programs and newsletters, I have been pleased for the past eight years to present an annual questionnaire.

I look forward to this project each year because it gives the people an opportunity to respond directly to questions involving issues to concern. The 1980 questionnaire is being distributed now in the district, seeking opinions on 10 questions.

Some of them are not easy, but I am asking for "yes" or "no" responses because that's the way I have to vote on the House floor. While the questionnaire is not intended to be a scientific sampling, it has in the past served as an indication of how Mississippians feel about some of the issues facing the country.

Here are the questions on the 1980 questionnaire:

1. Do you believe the U.S. should boycott the 1980 Summer Olympics in Moscow to show displeasure with the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan?
2. Should the federal government impose mandatory wage and price controls?
3. Would you support an increase in spending for national defense even if it meant reduced spending for other government programs?
4. Should up to $400 in interest from individual savings accounts be exempt from federal income tax?
5. Should the U.S. use military force if necessary to protect the Persian Gulf area?
6. Do you support expansion of nuclear power facilities and construction of new nuclear energy plants in the U.S.?

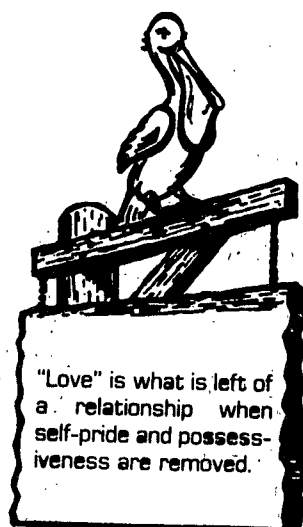

7. Do you believe American exports, such as grain and technology, should be used as bargaining tools against foreign countries, such as Russia and the oil producers of O.P.E.C.?

8. Would you support registration of women for the military draft?

9. Should Congress expand the powers of the C.I.A. and F.B.I. to gather intelligence on foreign activities?

10. Do you approve of President Carter's domestic economic policies? Your opinions are important to me as the House considers legislation related to these questions. The results of the questionnaire should be tabulated and ready for publication in June.

Convention in Detroit shall be elected by secret ballot in the presidential primary June 3.

The Fifth District, which includes Hancock County, is entitled to four delegates and four alternates.

In addition to those seventeen delegates selected from the state's congressional districts, Mississippi will be entitled to five delegates and five alternates selected by the State Convention from the state-at-large.

States of delegates for the various Republican candidates for nomination will appear on the June 3 primary ballot.

Hildon Shaw

Concerning Shaw's appointment, Lott said, "I am delighted to announce this important selection in the Reagan for President campaign...I am pleased Mr. Shaw, an outstanding citizen of Hancock County, has recognized Gov. Reagan's high regard for the people of Mississippi and will join his campaign."

In his position as county campaign chairman, Shaw will lead the effort here to generate support for the former California governor, Lott said.

"I urge other Mississippians to join the Reagan campaign, Lott added.

He said interested persons should contact Shaw at 255-7212 or the Reagan state campaign headquarters in Jackson.

In the meantime, Mike Retzer of Greenville, Mississippi Republican Party state chairman, said he will seek re-election to that post at the RNC State convention in Jackson May 10.

Retzer, who was elected chairman in March, 1978, said, "During my next term I will continue to fight for the right of every Mississippian to enjoy the benefits of two-party politics."

The Greenville businessman said he will be "a spokesman for greater economic growth, more individual freedom and a strong national defense."

Retzer also pledged to maintain his efforts "against the crippling taxes and government regulation that have sapped our people and our economy of their strength and vitality."

The 34-year-old chairman said he has "considerable support from leaders of the various Republican presidential campaigns" in his bid for re-election, and feels his candidacy is a means "of maintaining party unity."

Retzer declared his neutrality in the Republican presidential race and pledged to support the winner of the June 3 Republican Presidential Preference Primary in Mississippi.

Retzer also reported he and members of his state headquarters staff have scheduled a series of workshops around the state "to explain the upcoming party caucuses and conventions."

In this area, the workshop is slated for 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 2 at the Holiday Inn in Gulfport.

"These workshops will provide an in-depth review of the 'nuts and bolts' of running successful precinct and county caucuses, state and national conventions and the primary election," Retzer said.

"It is imperative that as many of you as possible, especially county leaders, attend the workshop most convenient to you," the state chairman urged his party members.

Retzer noted further information on the workshops and various caucuses and conventions may be obtained by calling the party's state headquarters in Jackson at 948-5191.

airport during marginal weather conditions," Smith explained.

"A pilot knows he's 4.3 miles due north of Stennis when passing over the beacon," Smith added.

"At the present time the nearest radio fix is the NRB at Gulfport's airport and there's one just west of Poyune...so, in any direction, you're 22 miles from a fix approaching Stennis," Smith explained.

"The problem now is, if you've got a ceiling of 400-500 feet it's just about impossible to land safely," the engineer explained.

The project engineer, who is also a pilot, also explained, "In the event Stennis International installs a complete landing system the NRB would still be a useful system because of its proposed location north of the airport rather than on airport property."

Smith said the NRB facility will consist of two 30-foot treated power poles with an antenna strung between the poles.

"A mass of cables will be installed in a star shaped pattern underground extending 75-150 feet from the poles covering an approximate one-acre site," the engineer explained.

"The underground cables will give a stable radio signal cutting the effect of the earth's magnetic field," Smith added.

"The NRB will greatly increase the utility of the airport and pilots will be able to shoot a more accurate fix for landing at Stennis," Smith said.

Hawkettes dropped from tourney

The Hancock North Central Hawkettes were defeated by the Harrison Central Red Rebelettes Friday night in the opening game of the Tournament of Champions in Jackson.

The Hawkettes, considered by many to be the underdog against the four-time championship Class AA Harrison Central five, was overpowered by Nancy Lee as she made key shots in strategic times in the match.

For the Hawkettes, Shaynon Ladner and Joye Nell Lee were high scorers with 13 points apiece.

The Hancock five led at the end of the first period with an 11-8 score, but the Rebelettes came back in the second stanza to note a 25-22 margin.

In the third period the Harrison Central squad outscored the Hawkettes 13-6, and the final score was 50-38.

Coach Charlie Jacobs' squad finished up the year with a 19-17 record.

Port Commission pushes Cadet bulkhead proposal

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission unanimously passed a resolution requesting the County Board of Supervisors reconsider a soil boring requested for the bulkhead at Bayou Cadet.

The consulting engineer says a soil boring is necessary to design the bulkhead fronting a proposed icehouse.

The supervisors failed to second a motion offered by Supervisor James Travirca at a regular March 3 meeting which would have approved an earlier resolution by commissioners authorizing Gore Engineering, Inc. of New Orleans to conduct soils testing at Bayou Cadet for the proposed bulkhead.

In reference to supervisor's comments that the Bayou Cadet dock was constructed without any soil borings, Commissioner Director W. Wilson Webre said, "I don't think they (the supervisors) know the difference between a bulkhead and a pier... the existing Bayou Cadet structure is a pier."

"I don't have any more information to present on the bulkhead. Tom Fromhutz of Fromhutz Engineers of New Orleans made it clear he could trust the work of Gore Engineering of New Orleans," Webre said.

Commissioner Fred Curet said, "I think you (Webre) went about this backwards. You should have gotten the test done. You've got no work done on the design and no price on building the bulkhead."

Fromhutz stated, "You have to have a soil boring so we can design the bulkhead wall."

Curet reiterated, "I think we ought to go for the soil boring."

Commissioner Victor Frankiewicz said, "I think we need a soil boring because we have to construct this bulkhead before the shrimp season begins."

Fromhutz stated, "We need a soil engineer."

Frankiewicz explained, "We're not building a regular bulkhead. In this case we are dealing with extreme pressure on the bulkhead with an eight foot drop-off and fill with a large building on the other side. Soils engineering is needed."

"If this doesn't go through the project will be delayed," Frankiewicz added. Curet added, "The project will be dead."

Frankiewicz reported, "I've talked with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and I don't think there will be any conflict dredging the icehouse channel."

"Any excess spoils can be put in the roadway nearby. We should have a permit next week," Frankiewicz added.

Commissioner David McDonald said, "I would like to commend Frankiewicz for getting this permit and for the first time we haven't had a lot of trouble getting a permit finalized."

Shoreline pair 'misled' on Florida vacation plan

By RICH ADAMS

A Shoreline Park couple has reported to Bay St. Louis Police and several senior citizens groups that a travel company's "vacation offer to fabulous Florida" is actually a land sales promotion gimmick.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Sloane said they received a postcard on Feb. 22 from National Travel Incorporated in Sparta, Tennessee, which acts as an agent for Lehigh Corporation of Ft. Meyers, Florida.

The postcard informed the Sloanes they had won "an exciting 5-day and 4-night vacation in fabulous Florida."

After calling a number on the postcard, which connects a caller to National Travel, Mrs. Sloane was asked to authorize the company to charge $49 to her Master Charge account.

After giving the company her credit card number, Mrs. Sloane received a vacation certificate which offers the pair lodging at any one of 11 Florida hotels.

The terms of the offer, however, state the holder of the certificate must pay every expense other than the hotel room, and invites the holder to attend a land sales presentation by Lehigh Corporation.

Mrs. Sloane said she complained to the Hancock County Senior Citizen Information and Referral Service and Bay St. Louis Police, claiming the offer is a "gimmick" and "could be mail fraud."

She is seeking legal assistance through the South Mississippi Legal Services in an attempt to get a refund of her money.

The terms of her contract with the companies, however, stipulates that no refund is available.

"I asked what the gimmick or catch was when I called the number. The lady said there is no gimmick or catch," Mrs. Sloane said Friday.

"I know most of these offers are associated with high-pressure land sales, but the lady at the travel agency said there is no gimmick," she emphasized.

Mrs. Sloane said she is not even eligible for the offer because fine print on the contract states "This certificate is valid only for a married couple between 23 and 65 years of age traveling together and gainfully employed or retired."

"My husband will turn 70-years-old this year. We could not take the trip even if we wanted to," Mrs. Sloane said.

"We could transfer this to my grandson, but he is not 23-years-old yet," she added.

"We get stuck for the $49 either way you look at this," Mr. Sloane said.

Rhonda Stroda, a travel agent with National Travel Incorporated, said Friday the Sloanes are eligible for another certificate which will entitle persons of their age group to take advantage of the offer.

"They could send their certificate back and receive a 'worldwide' certificate for someone their age," Stroda said.

Shelia Versaggi, an employee of Lehigh, said Friday the program is "definitely a land promotion deal," adding she does not know why the travel agent told Mrs. Sloane the offer did not include a sales tour.

However, Versaggi said Lehigh does not require the certificate holder to make the land tour.

"When the couple arrives in Florida, one of our travel hostesses will phone their room and invite them to take the tour," she explained.

Versaggi said the program offers the vacationer a one-night stay at an "Orlando-Disney World area motel," plus two adult admission tickets.

She admitted, however, transportation to Orlando from motels in Miami, Ft. Lauderdale, Ft. Myers, or Lehigh is not provided.

Versaggi said a coupon book with discounts at Florida restaurants, souvenir stores, and attractions is Commission, said Friday she could not comment on the matter of the permit rejection.

Dr. Byrd said all questions should be referred to Dr. Lawrence Crane, the secretary of Culture, Recreation, and Tourism.

Dr. Crane's was out of his office Friday and unavailable for comment. Gele said Friday he is scheduling another expedition to the islands, this time with the assistance of NSTL divers and equipment.

Another factor which may slow his search for the lost city is exploration by oil companies in the area which the city is located.

Gele, however, believes the state will "go with the highest priority" and not allow oil companies to work in the area of his find.

"I guess I am in competition for some of the ground, because I am sure oil is beneath the site," Gele said.

Gele explained the State Department of Natural Resources is tasked with issuing permits for underwater oil exploration.

"I believe in the state's sense of preservation of historical finds. I respect the need for oil and gas exploration, but I also know the state has an interest in archeological finds of this sort," Gele added.

Gele explained that he is not a professional archeologist but rather an amateur, with his weekend excursions to the site near the islands.

Gele expressed a need for an appropriate vessel to continue his excursions, a large boat which could handle the equipment necessary to continue the search.

The boat, Gele said, would ideally be equipped with Loren-C communication equipment, underwater sonar equipment, and be able to support divers.

He said anyone willing to volunteer such a vessel could contact him by telephoning him at (504)-925-3756.

Book Review

A new publication, Nursing Education Opportunities in Mississippi, has just been released by the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning.

The publication is the result of a project funded by the Board and headed by Peggy C. Keheley, R.N., Ed.D., a member of the College Board staff.

The publication lists the four types of nursing programs in Mississippi which prepare three types of nurses eligible to be licensed as registered nurses.

These four areas are: Associate degree nurse program, diploma nurse program, baccalaureate degree program, master's degree program.

In addition to the basic academic programs, there are three specialty programs which prepare registered nurses to practice in expanded roles:

(1) Nurse Anesthesiology, (2) Nurse Midwifery and (3) Pediatric Nurse Associate Program.

Publications containing specific information about each program in Mississippi include everything a prospective student would need to know, including cost, time required, travel and even whether or not a watch with a second hand will be needed.

These publications are available without cost from the Education Information Center in Tullis Manor Bldg.

To obtain any of these free publications, write: Education Information Center, Box 4581, Biloxi, Ms. 39531, or call toll free from Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, Pearl River, Stone and George Counties, 1-436-4132.

Diamondhead News

The fire station was heaped with clothing, furniture, cookware, gadgets and multitudes of items necessary for a White Elephant sale.

This one-directed by Lee Peterson and assistants Phyllis Haight, Eura Watson, Eva Bond, Isabelle Lund and Mary Hoppert-produced $2,559 for the fire department.

Members of the auxiliary and their husbands gave generously to the sale's success.

Frances Mayfield won the afghan and Jo Novelle of St. Louis won the sweater. These items were hand made and contributed to be auctioned.

The fire station received drapes, an adding machine, lounges, cutlery, dishes and other badly needed equipment from among the donated items.

The Tennis Association will sponsor a Diamondhead Senior Invitational tourney March 27-30.

Age brackets for men will be 35-45-55 and ladies 35-45. Matches will be for singles and doubles. Contact Tennis World at 255-1421, extension 6251 for entry.

Nominations are in order for the 1980 Diamondhead Rodeo Queen.

Girls must be between the ages of 17 and 21 and a member of the immediate family of a Diamondhead member to be eligible.

Contact Community Services Office, 5300 Diamondhead Circle for further information. Deadline is April 1, 1980.

Little League time! Boys and girls ages 8 to 15 should contact Betsy Nolan (255-7702) or John Kolodzie (255-7967) immediately.

Practice will begin in April. Coaches and assistants are urgently needed.

The Southern Mississippi Horse Show and Rodeo Association will sponsor a show Saturday, March 22, beginning at 12 noon. Admission to the arena will be free and food will be on sale.

Entry fee will be $2.50 for each class entered. Trophies will be awarded for five high points and judging will be on cutting, halter and performance.

Contact Morris Lott (255-1421) or Hilda Bourg (255-1299) for additional information.

The weekly Diamondhead Men's Golf Association handicap tourney attracted a large field despite the most adverse weather conditions.

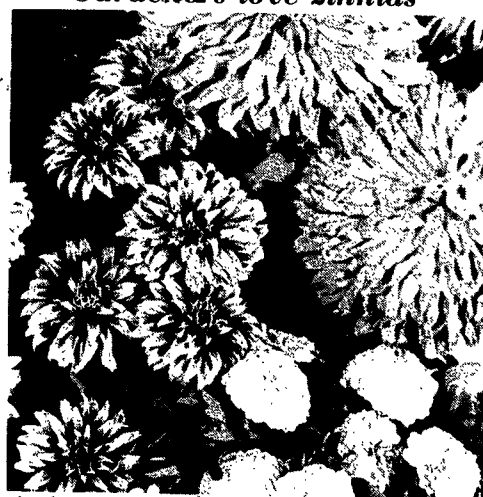

Tourney master Cliff Russell allowed play to continue despite good natured cries for help. Life preservers were in order.

John Reech, Austin Price, Ed Westlake and Whitey Fellman comprised the winning foursome. In individual, John Price won first place; Jim Hoskins won second place; Walt Schlessman, Robert Tonner and Tommy Shinn tied for third while E.C. Dean, Milton Haggard and Bob Stanton tied for sixth place.

Diamondhead citizens are shocked and grieved at the untimely, accidental death of Henry Primeaux and the injury to his wife in an automobile accident Wednesday in New Orleans.

Gardeners love zinnias

What makes zinnias the number one flower grown from seeds?

The vast choice of plant and blossom sizes, colors and petal conformation make zinnias popular. Ease of growth, heat resistance and dependability are important considerations, too.

"There is a certain rugged presence about zinnias," says Jim Perry, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service horticulturist. "Zinnias show a sturdy self-reliance from the day their broad seed leaves poke through the soil. Zinnias bloom early and persevere despite heat, rain and pests."

Gardeners love zinnias for their upright stance, colors and robust assertiveness. Zinnias lack fragrance, but sweet fragrance would be out of character with a flower with vivid colors and rough leaves.

Pass Garden Club plans Flower Show April 17

The Pass Christian Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. William Harrison March 6 where the invocation was offered by Chaplain Mrs. Theo T. Moore and President Mrs. Rosamond Wallace welcomed guests.

Mrs. Moore noted Frank Pearson had called her requesting that she urge the Club members to return their Census questionnaire as promptly as possible to reduce the number of follow-up calls necessitated if the forms are not returned promptly.

Mrs. Herman DeVries then outlined plans for the Club Flower Show to be held Thursday, April 17, at the Pass Christian Golf Club. She listed the various categories of arrangements and their display requirements.

Mrs. Walter Guilbault reported that the purple martins are now arriving and urged members to prepare their martin houses for these welcome guests who particularly enjoy a diet of misquitos.

Several members have put in a great deal of hard labor recently in plantings around the high school, the Library and the City Hall. Forty-nine azaleas were planted at the high school, with the enthusiastic help of many of the students and teachers.

The members were much heartened by the expressions of appreciation they received. Also, a tremendous amount of work has gone into the Wild Flower Garden, in spite of the fact the chairman, Mrs. Drury Dragon, said there is yet a vast amount to be done.

She expressed her gratitude for all the help both the County and the State had contributed.

Mrs. Howard Haines, Horticulture chairman, gave the monthly award for bringing the most members in her car to Mrs. Harriman Morgan in observance of gasoline conservation.

In response to complaints about the recent freeze and its damage to tender vegetation, Mrs. Haines told of protecting her tomato plants by covering them with gallon milk bottles, and said that this enables the plants to give off enough heat to survive the 24 degree temperatures.

She also said that stones which are warmed by the sun during the day are excellent protection for plants in low temperatures.

The meeting was then turned over to guest speaker, Wes Jones, who discussed in considerable detail the many phases of tree culture, including site planning, feeding, spraying and pruning, and when to do them.

He pointed out that it must first be determined whether a shade tree, a wind breaker, a flowering tree, a fast growing but short lived tree, or a slow growing but long lived tree is best suited for the purpose.

He particularly emphasized allowing ample room for the roots to spread in the planting of a tree.

More than a little seriously, he illustrated his point by saying if one were planting a $25 tree a $50 hole should be provided.

He stated a little fertilizer should be included, but not at any point where it touched the roots to prevent burning. Mulch should also be included. The members were unanimous in their enjoyment of Mr. Jones' talk.

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by the hostesses for the day: Mrs. Walter Martin and Mrs. H. McDonald Morse, co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Pope Schoenberger, Mrs. Leo Allen, Mrs. J. Randolph Buck, Mrs. Johnny Erp, and Mrs. T.J. McMahon.

Guild's Silver Tea a success

Members of St. Monica Guild of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian and guests gathered in the home of Mrs. Hollis Crosby on East Beach Monday afternoon to hear a report by Mrs. J. Randolph Buck, overall chairperson for the group's recent Silver Tea.

Also Monday, Guild members heard an address by Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis on the 'Role of Women in the Reformation.'

Mrs. Buck told the group proceeds from the tea after expenses came to $836.

She asked for suggestions on how these funds should be used, and members voted a donation of $100 to Therapy Swimming Program for handicapped children in the Bay-Waveland area.

Other funds will go to purchase an A.B. Dick electric copying machine to be placed in Trinity Church office.

In addition to those from the Mississippi Gulf Coast who attended the tea, Mrs. Buck said the following nine states were represented: Louisiana, New York, Illinois and Arkansas.

The tea was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy C. Billups Jr. The Billups' home is a recognized tourist attraction.

In her talk, Mrs. Pilet noted "Turn back the pages of history and you will learn that behind almost every man who has achieved fame stands a woman whose keen insight, intuition, and faith is largely responsible for his success."

Tracing the early life of Booker T. Washington, founder of Tuskegee Institute, Mrs. Pilet said the early training given Washington during the time he was the house boy of General and Mrs. Lewis Ruffner started the boy on the way to becoming one of the greatest teachers this country has ever produced.

In speaking of Josiah Wedgwood, famous for his creation of beautiful pottery, including Queensware, Mrs. Pilet read a letter written by Josiah in praise of his wife's aid.

From the letter she quoted: "I never had a great plan that I did not submit to my wife. It was her love for the beautiful that prompted and inspired me."

Mrs. Pilet openly disagreed with historians who gave John Wesley credit for being the founder of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

"It was actually John Wesley's mother, Susanna, the 14th child of her parents who preached, proved and instilled methodism in the hearts and minds of her nineteen children, of which John Wesley was the 15th child."

Anne Hutchinson, whose belief in "A Covenant of Grace" was called "one of the greatest martyrs of all times" by Mrs. Pilet who lauded Mrs. Hutchinson for her role in freeing her followers from fear and debunking the then prevalent belief in "un-forgiven sin, hell and damnation."

Anne Hutchinson's theory was free yourself from wrong thought, enter into the Covenant of Grace and your sins will be forgiven, you will have God's protection, and you will be happy in the hereafter. Mrs. Pilet said.

Anne Hutchinson inspired Roger Williams, Baptist Minister, to be the first to lift his voice in defense of freedom of speech in America, she noted.

"Assisting the hostess during the social hour following the meeting were Mmes. Stanford E. Morse, Sr., and Mrs. John Edmund Murphy II.

Mrs. Marvin Mingleorff presided at the sherry service while Mrs. Buck poured tea.

Throughout the Crosby home, rooms were attractively decorated with arrangements of early spring flowers.

A St. Patrick's Day theme was used in the decorations for the social hour hosted by Mrs. Nola Duplantis and Mrs. A. M. Thomas.

The next meeting will be at 11:30 a.m. April 10 in the home of Mrs. Rose Ann Ross.

Margaret Pitts of Long Beach and Rhea Sacafidi, Patricia Depreo and Bezy Schaefer all of Bay St. Louis, were invested in the Ritual of Jewels by Alpha Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, Feb. 25 in the home of Lenore Puckett of Pass Christian.

Bezy Schaefer, chairman for the group's spring garage sale, reported the sale will be Saturday Mar. 29 in Bay St. Louis.

Profits from the sale will go to charity, she noted.

Ann Gerads of Pass Christian, program chairman selected dates and members to give programs for the remainder of 1980.

Plans were discussed for a social in early June.

Members are also planning an international dinner in keeping with the organization's 1980 theme, 'Around the World with Beta Sigma Phi.'

The group's next meeting will be March 10 in the home of Janie Head, Long Beach.

Marathon charity walker strolls through Hancock

Chris Anderson and his two companions

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Chris Anderson, 24, of Keene, N.H. walked into Waveland along US-90 Monday afternoon, some 8.5 months into a pedestrian adventure which began in Los Angeles, Calif. June 28, 1979, and is slated to terminate in Washington, D.C.

Pulling a 200 pound aluminum wagon and accompanied by his two dogs, Anderson marked up 2,300 miles in his 4,500 mile walk for the American Heart Association.

"I hope to get a pledge personally from the president and stay a day or two in the White House," the tenacious young man said.

"I'm trying to get everyone in America to send at least one dollar to the Heart Association," Anderson explained.

"Since I'm willing to put out this type of effort the least people can do is send in a dollar to the American Heart Association. If every working person in America sent in a dollar it would amount to over $50 million," Anderson feels.

Anderson calculates he has generated $10,000 in pledges, an estimated $40,000 in donations already received, and $7 million in publicity for the Heart Association.

"Heart disease is the number one killing disease. I feel Americans ought to work together to fight this number one peacetime killer rather than just working together in times of war," Anderson stated.

"I've been on over 80 television stations, talked with hundreds of newspaper reporters, been on NBC's 'Real People' program, been to many military bases, received a key to the city of New Orleans and received a citation of appreciation from the City of Gonzales, La.," the charity walker reported.

"I want to make a better world for people and for generations to come. I realize if you don't do something yourself you won't get it done," Anderson stated.

The Heart Association walker said he averages about 20 miles a day and has worn out nine pairs of shoes (about one pair a month).

Walkathons are not a new thing for Anderson, he said, "I've been doing walkathons for various charities for the last four years."

The sticker-covered, aluminum wagon Anderson pulls for his provisions and shelter cost the young man $2,300 to build.

"I worked 10 months at a record company to get enough money to build the wagon. I designed and built about 30 percent of the wagon, but because I lacked tools I had someone else build most of it for me," the bearded young man reported.

The short 130 pound walker said the toughest times in his journey were in the San Bernardino Mountains and in the Mohave Desert.

"I usually average 10 miles in two hours, but in the San Bernardino Mountains I averaged about 10 miles in 12 hours and collapsed twice from the thin air," Anderson said.

"I crossed the Mohave Desert in three and a half weeks in average 120 degree temperatures experiencing anything from 60 mile per hour sand storms to flash floods. I also have had to fight off wild dogs and rattlesnakes in the desert with just a machete," Anderson reported.

"Because of the 185 degree road temperatures in the desert I melted one pair of shoes and the nobby bicycle tires I had on my wagon wore slick," he added.

The Heart Association walker said he takes mostly the back roads in his journey, commenting, "Texas has the best roads and Louisiana has the worst roads with the worst garbage problem along their roads."

In New Orleans someone stole Anderson's $1,100 flashing warning lights and batteries on his wagon, which he has not been able to replace.

But his Louisiana experiences haven't been all bad, the young traveler explained, "In Baton Rouge I met a girl and got engaged. I used to think Farrah Faucett was beautiful, but she's even more gorgeous."

Anderson originally planned walking back to California after he reaches Washington D.C., but added, "I don't think I could stay away from that beautiful lady of mine that long."

The traveling fund raiser says he plans to walk through coastal Mississippi, Alabama, the Florida panhandle and up the east coast toward the nation's capital.

If Anderson's journey goes as planned he should reach the White House sometime late next fall to ask the president for his American Heart Association pledge.

LIBRARY WEEK

Linda Haas of Bay St. Louis has been chosen to head Hancock County's celebration of National Library Week April 13-19, according to James D. Green of Jackson, former president of the Mississippi Association of Supervisors and chairman of Mississippi's 1980 observance. Theme for this year's program is "America's Greatest Bargain--the Library."

LIBRARY WEEK

A long-time supporter of the library system, Mrs. Haas served on the Hancock County Library System Board of Trustees from 1969 to 1978 and was chairman of the board from 1973 to 1975.

According to Mrs. Haas, who is owner of Dixie Realty, the statewide goal for National Library Week is for each library to add at least one new service or to extend an existing service.

In keeping with this aim, the library will open the new Kiln Library of the Hancock County Library System. Since 1977, the Kiln Library has been housed in a trailer.

In the summer of 1979, the Farm Bureau building was purchased and is now being renovated as a full-service branch of the Hancock County Library System.

Plans include a main reading room with a collection of over 2,000 books, a public copy machine, and magazine reading area; the Terri Kay Zengarling Children's Room which will house the Terri Kay Zengarling Memorial Children's Collection as well as records and audio-visual equipment; and a meeting room for library programs and community meetings.

Habitat preservation theme of Wildlife Week

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed a new national observance, Wildlife Restoration Week, in 1938, the nation had only recently learned an important environmental lesson from its disastrous Dust Bowl. Without adequate protection, our natural resources could be quickly lost forever. It seemed appropriate that the theme of the week in March sponsored by the National Wildlife Federation, should be habitat protection.

It's now 42 years later, and the week, held this year March 16 through 22, is called National Wildlife Week. Once again, the theme - "Save A Place For Wildlife" - emphasizes habitat protection. Over the years, National Wildlife Week themes have varied, from endangered species in general, as in 1957 and 1974, when the themes were "Save Endangered Wildlife" and "We Care About Endangered Wildlife" to specific endangered animals, as in 1952, when the Wildlife Week theme was "Save the Key Deer."

Other themes have stressed environmental problems ("Chemical Pesticides Are Poison," in 1963 and "We All Need Clean Water," in 1977) and the importance of outdoor activities ("Protect Our Public Lands," in 1958 and "America Needs Outdoor Recreation," in 1964).

In 1972 ecology was emphasized ("Ecology: A Wild Idea") and in 1966, with "Protect Natural Beauty," the focus was on aesthetics.

But habitat protection has remained an important and recurring theme. As Thomas L. Kimball, executive vice president of the National Wildlife Federation, explains:

"It's an issue that never goes away. Very simply, without food, water, cover, and a place to raise young - habitat - wildlife cannot survive."

We've come a long way since the Dust Bowl swept across the country, but unfortunately, many of the nation's remaining wildlife habitats are still in danger. For example:

- The nation once boasted 400,000 square miles of eastern tallgrass prairie, stretching from Minnesota into Texas and as far east as Indiana. Today, only one percent of those prairies remains;

- The U. S. Soil Conservation Service has estimated that there were originally 127 million acres of wetlands in the lower 48 states. Half of them have been obliterated, and it is estimated that 138,000 acres of wetlands are drained each year;

- For years, coastal cities have dumped polluting sewage into the biggest wildlife habitat of all - the ocean. For example, more than 130 million cubic feet of sludge are dumped each year into a stretch of ocean south of Long Island and east of New Jersey. Biologists have found that pollutants in the sludge can become concentrated in edible seafood; and

- More than two million acres of ravaged strip-mined land are waiting to be reclaimed. Some 800,000 acres more are mined each year.

"We can't turn back the clock, but with careful planning we can save the nation's remaining wildlife habitats," Kimball emphasized. "We can 'Save A Place For Wildlife.' But we need everyone's help and concern. If you care about wildlife, then you must care about habitat."

Screen actor and environmentalist Robert Redford is serving as chairman of the Wildlife Week observance for the fourth consecutive year.

There's an Answer!

So much love to give

Q. I dated a nice man for almost 4 years. He was warm and nice to be with. But I feel he was ashamed of me because he wouldn't take me anywhere. We'd watch TV at my apartment. He had a good many problems with finances and health, and many times I went without just to help him. I never regretted it. I loved him and still do. A year ago he asked me to get a loan for him, and I couldn't do it. I haven't heard from him since. What can I do to get him off my mind? I'm 32 and I'm hurt and lonely. I have so much love to give and want so much to marry.

A. You impress me as a person with a warm and giving nature whose desire to give love and marry blinded you to this man who, quite abruptly, disappeared when you could no longer help him. I can understand how hurt and lonely you feel. But dwelling on these thoughts will not bring you happiness or someone to love. Try to direct yourself toward new friends; join a church group, an exercise class, a community organization. Open yourself up to new people and new situations, and soon your mind will be dwelling on the future and its opportunities rather than on the past.

We are sending you our booklet, Help Yourself With God's Help, which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Lou Holtz, Football Coach With a Different Message

Lou Holtz is one of the winningest coaches in college football. Currently, he is head coach at the University of Arkansas. And he's a man with definite ideas about football, about life and how to live it.

Coach Holtz sums up his basic philosophy this way: "There's not anything in this world that's easy that's worth a dime. If you are going to do something worthwhile, you are going to do it through a lot of pain, hardship and you are going to have to make an awful lot of sacrifices."

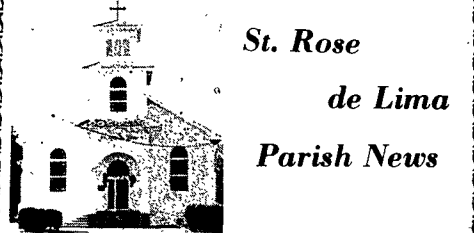

Holtz, who has also been head coach of the New York Jets, says there is a big difference between coaching for a pro team and at the college level. The big difference, he says, is that "in college athletics you have to deal with the young man year-round. You worry about him academically, his social conduct, and you work with him at a period when he is developing and maturing. You can have a very positive influence on his life."

Holtz is a man who cares about his players. He wants them to be good football players but he wants them to be whole people and encourages them to get involved in other areas. One such area is Army ROTC. Currently, five members of the team are Army ROTC cadets.

Holtz, himself an ROTC graduate who went on to Active Army service, says he feels his Army ROTC background was one of the most beneficial things that ever happened to him. "It helped me as an individual and I think it'll help our players a great deal. I think that at this formative stage of their lives, the discipline, responsibility, and decision making... the same things that apply to successful football, are certainly applicable to Army ROTC."

As far as the often-stated philosophy that winning is everything, Coach Holtz has a different idea. "I think people describe winning, but nobody really knows what it is," he says. "Winning is not the most important thing in the world. I think the desire to win is important. I think the willingness to make the sacrifices in order to be successful is important. Sometimes people can't win because they are so afraid of losing. It's true in business, it's true in school, it's true in athletics."

REVIVALS OR A SERIES OF RELIGIOUS SERVICES? In generations past our forefathers laid aside everything possible to attend church services at "Big Meetin' Time."

Most churches, especially among Protestants and Baptists, referred to them as "protracted meetings. In the vernacular of our day we have loosely dubbed these "Revival Meetings."

In these times of many churches (maybe too many in some places) we are constantly hearing of "revivals" here, there, everywhere. We hasten to admit there is nothing we need more than some real revivals among professed Christians. The psalmist David prayed: "Will thou not revive us again: that thy people may rejoice in thee?" (Ps. 85:6).

Seldom does a week pass, especially at certain times of the year, without a number of nearby churches advertising a "Revival."

In our opinion very few of such "revivals" are revivals. Too often they are nothing more than religious effort born of pressure designed to meet competition.

A lot of arm-waving and shouting, along with a collection of cute sayings in the pulpit; fleshly emotional hysteria; a lot of gimmicks to get a crowd; bringing in a celebrity, etc., rock bands rap sessions; talking about the "spirit," when they obviously know nothing about the person or work of the Holy Spirit, too often nothing more than the work of the flesh.

To be realistic, everybody who "makes a decision" or "joins the church" is not necessarily saved. Let me emphasize again: we need real revival in the world.

What we don't need any more of is empty religious motion, cheap sensationalism, and emotional hysteria born of the flesh and nurtured by error. Let the earnest prayer of all of us be: "God, send a revival, and let it begin with me!"

When Gipsy Smith was asked how to have a revival, he replied: "Go home, lock yourself in your room, kneel down in the middle of the floor, draw a chalk mark all around yourself and ask God to start a revival inside the chalk mark. When He has answered your prayer, the revival will be on."

Dr. J. B. Chapman said, "We have reached the place where one man plays a hand-saw and another gives a 'Life Story,' gathering a big crowd and we call that revival. No! that is not a revival; that is a farce. Tears, sweat, and blood are the price of a revival, and some of us are not willing to pay the price."

In the words of Dr. R. A. Torrey: "Let a few Christians get thoroughly right with God themselves. Second, let them bind themselves together in a prayer group to pray for revival until God opens the heavens and comes down. Third, let them put themselves at the disposal of God for Him to use as He sees fit in winning others to Christ. This is sure to bring revival."

BIG CATCH—Leo Paul (Super Crab) Maurice, left, and Lee Curtis display some of the speckled trout and redfish they caught Monday while fishing off Beach Boulevard near St. Charles Street in Bay St. Louis. The duo found it necessary to launch their boat from the beach since their usual launching area, the American Legion Jetty, is closed for that purpose. The fishermen were undaunted by the closing as they brought in "a whole line of fish." (Staff photo-Rich Adams)
